1. Funding

The Board (“Board”) of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association (“TMBA”) established an Education Endowment in 2012 (“Fund”). In connection with that Fund, the Board began contributing certain monies into the Fund, and adopted the Investment Policy for Education Endowment (“Policy”). The Policy provides that each year a certain portion of the total real return can be used to support the Fund’s educational goals.

In 2015, the Board decided to offer, beginning in May 2015, limited scholarships to persons wishing to participate in relevant mortgage banking related programs furthering the general goals of the TMBA. The scholarships are not designed to give recipients a “free ride.” Instead, the underlying premise is that recipient and/or recipient’s employer will also make an investment of time, talent and treasure in participating in the program. The Board believes this approach more properly incentivizes recipients to take their participation seriously, and furthers the objectives of the TMBA.

On an annual basis, scholarships may be awarded to qualifying applicants in the following amounts:

- $2,500
- $1,500
- $500

2. Criteria

Qualifying criteria are very important for the scholarship program. The criteria determine who will be awarded a scholarship. Criteria generally will be changed no more than once per year, after the award has been given and before the application is published for the next deadline.

The current criteria that judges will consider for determining who should receive a scholarship are generally as follows (in no particular order):

- The relevance of the program for which the scholarship is proposed to be used.
- How this program furthers the goals of the TMBA.
- Why the applicant is particularly well-suited for the scholarship.
- Whether the applicant has demonstrated loyalty to, and ambition in, the mortgage banking industry.
- Whether the applicant has demonstrated substantial interest and investment of time and talent in the TMBA, or another similar organization focused on promoting the mortgage banking industry generally.
- Whether the applicant has a proven track record of attaining educational goals.
- Whether the applicant will be a stellar ambassador of the TMBA.
- Whether the applicant faces a significant disadvantage (e.g., economic hardship, or otherwise) in furthering the applicant’s mortgage banking education.

3. Application

Applicants for scholarships must complete a written application. The application can be found in Attachment 1 hereto.

The application includes, among other information, the criteria for obtaining the scholarship, application deadline, time period within which the funds can be used, all required materials that must be submitted with the application, and contact information for questions and submittal.

Applicants should submit evidence supporting the claims made in the application directly relating to the criteria of the scholarship, e.g., transcripts for GPA or school verification, medical verification of a disability if asserted as a disadvantage, written recommendations from employers or other relevant persons, verification of prior service, etc.

4. Eligibility

Applications are open to any individual currently actively employed in the mortgage banking industry, so long as such person spends a majority of his or her working time physically working in the State of Texas.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, current members of the Board, TMBA staff, and any individual who has received a TMBA scholarship within the three years immediately preceding the then-current calendar year, and each of their respective spouses, parents, and children, are not eligible.

5. Judging

A three-person, volunteer judging committee will select scholarship recipients. The judging committee will consist of persons who are members of the Board and/or members of the Education and Endowment Committee (or its successor).

The contact for applications will be a member of the TMBA staff, and such person is not eligible to be a judge.

The application contact will ensure that judges receive all information in a "blinded," partially blanked out, format to help prevent bias in judging. The judges' copies will be numbered so if a question arises the application contact can reference information by number.

Judges at all times retain the authority to decide not to award one or more of the scholarships after reviewing the applications.

6. Announcing Recipients

Scholarship recipients will be notified in writing. The award letter will ask the recipient for the contact and address information for the program proposed to be attended, so the TMBA can send the award directly to the organization hosting the educational program in which the recipient will participate.

The TMBA may choose to have a formal presentation at which recipients are announced, such as at a conference or seminar.

7. Disbursement of Funds

Scholarship funds will be sent directly to the host of the program in which the recipient will participate (unless otherwise approved by the Executive Committee).

The TMBA makes no representation regarding whether scholarship funds are taxable. Recipients should consult their tax advisors in this regard.

If the recipient decides not to participate in the program proposed, or discontinues participation, any unused funds will be returned to the TMBA.

If an individual is selected to receive a scholarship, but it is later determined that the individual was not eligible, the scholarship will be revoked.

The funds must be used within the 12-month period it is awarded.
